SEWING MACHINES
ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION AND Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order should make a tight LOCK-STITCH alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin with rapidity, and without changing the tension It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer should stitch, fell, run and gather, and always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and work but little noise.

It should have a wheel feed, as others are in constant contact with the work

It should not be liable to get out of order, neither should it require a screw driver or wrench to set the needle

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, or ravel

Terrible Battles—Movements of the Armies—Latest News.

We have Eastern news as late as the 15th April. We give very full extracts. While our army in Tennessee was divided, the rebel army of 60,000 men, by a sudden movement, attacked our forces of 38,000, near Pittsburg Landing, on the 8th, commanded by Gen Grant, who steadily fought for a whole day against this vastly superior force, with varied success, and until Gen. Buell's forces came up, when the fight was renewed the next day, and the result was the utter discomfiture of the rebels, the capture of most of their cannon, and the escape of the main body to Corinth, where it was supposed they would soon be invested by the Union forces. This achievement has cost the country the loss of the lives of many gallant and patriotic citizens, but it has given the rebels another evidence that in the field of battle one fire-eater is not equal to five Northern men. In fact, the first day's battle proved that two fire-eaters were not more than equal to one Northerner. We refer our readers to subsequent columns for further details.

Gen. Burnside is still moving about on the shores of Pamlico Sound—obviously for the purpose of employing the rebel force in that quarter—thus preventing their being sent to reinforce the rebels on the Potomac or in Tennessee.

New Orleans at this time is threatened by the immense fleet of Commodore Porter, and by the expedition of Gen. Butler. The great force collected by the enemy at Corinth, (which proved to be unable to meet one portion of our Western army,) can have precious little chance of success in awaiting our victorious march South, when Gen. Pope's army of 40,000 is united to those of Grant and Buell.

We can scarcely understand the designs of all the movements of the armies on the Potomac. The defeat of Jackson by Shields has disconcerted the arrangements of the rebels for making a dash into Maryland and on Washington. The armies are now near each other, at Yorktown, McClellan commanding in person. If successful there, doubtless McClellan will press on Richmond on the east side, while McDowell, with his forces, will march upon it from the north.

We have no important news from the army, whose base of operations is at Port Royal, with the exception of the fact that Gen. Sherman has been relieved by Gen Hunter. Nor have we any intelligence from Price's army for some two weeks. Government is sending a large reinforcement to our gallant troops in New Mexico. On all sides, it seems to be well understood that Government is in full tide of success in squelching out the rebellion.

Full Details of News.

News to April 6th.

EDINBURGH, Va, April 5—The enemy yesterday attempted to retard our bridge builders Our troops took possession of the elevations selected by Gen Banks, under a hot fire It is said Johnson's forces are principally impressed men, who refuse to fight

WASHINGTON, April 7—Gen Sherman and staff have arrived A fight was expected at Jacksonville, but Col Wright expected to sustain himself

FORT MONROE, April 5.—Fort Mason still holds out Extensive arrangements are made for its reduction

Cannonading has been heard all day in the direction of Yorktown

MOBILE, April 4—The Yankees have landed at Biloxi, and cut the wires between New Orleans and Mobile

News to April 8th.

NEW MADRID, April 7.—This morning, troops crossed the river and hushed the rebel guns Large bodies of our troops crossed the river on to the Kentucky shore The Carondelet run the enemy's batteries

WASHINGTON, April 7—Bands of rebels remain near Manassas

Gen Mitchell's forces were received with great enthusiasm at Shelbyville, Tenn

Gen Sickles captured forty horses at Spoffard Court House and many valuable letters

The slaves of James M Mason, of Va, have decamped and are in Philadelphia Troubles have made one of his daughters insane

Scouting parties of rebels are on the Rappahannock engaged in plundering, Our forces have reached there

There is talk of manning the Southern forts with blacks

The Senate Military Committee will report a bill authorizing the President to transfer all appropriations for fortifications to the building of iron clad vessels of war

A resolution for the appointment of a committee to report at an early day whether any plan of gradual emancipation can be adopted in the Border States—whether it would be desirable, and whether it would be expedient to colonize emancipated slaves on this continent or elsewhere.

CHICAGO, April 7—No information in regard to the movement of our army from Fortress Monroe is allowed to be published, except that obtained through rebel sources It appears that the rebel authorities at Richmond accept the following as facts That a large Union army has been concentrated on York peninsula, that this army is under the immediate command of General McClellan, who intends to march on the rebel Capital via York river Information was conveyed to the rebels, it seems, by the appearance off Fortress Monroe of over a hundred transports filled with troops. Big Bethel, Shipping Point and other intermediate points have been taken, and demonstrations made against Yorktown When this place is taken Richmond will be within three days' march

WASHINGTON, April 7—The Navy Department has received dispatches from Commander Rowan from Kingston, [?] N. C, 20th March saying that an expedition to that place, consisting of three vessels and one transport, met no resistance, except from obstructions in the river Neuse When they arrived, they found the batteries abandoned and the ammunition removed After landing, the Union troops proceeded to the Court House and raised the national flag The authorities expressed a deep affection for the old Union, and animosity to its enemies—especially towards troops from other States This feeling had caused the abandonment of the defenses of the place, which was followed by the destruction of the Confederate property by the people The woods and swamps in the vicinity were represented to be full of refugees from draft They are bitter in denunciation of secession, and promise to form a regiment, if called upon for aid in the restoration of the old flag.

News to April 9th.

FORTRESS MONROE, April 8—The Norfolk Day Book, of this morning, has news from Corinth of a great battle in which the Confederates had taken eight field batteries and prisoners

CHICAGO, April 9—Among the corporators of the Pacific Railroad bill, reported in the Senate a few days since, are S. J Hensley, Peter Donahue, C. P Huntington T D Judah, J J Regan, and James Beatty, of California, W S Ladd and A W. S Perry of Oregon.

CHICAGO, April 8—We have fought and won, near Pittsburgh Landing, the hardest battle ever fought on this continent.

CAIRO, April 8—General Pope this morning attacked the enemy at Tipton, to which place they retreated from Island No 10, and took two thousand prisoners, mostly from Arkansas and Louisiana He will probably get as many more before night. The rebels fled to the swamp in great consternation Before leaving the island they sunk several of their transports and their gunboat Grampus The floating battery, mounting ten guns, floated down the river and went ashore near Point Pleasant, and will be recovered The victory was decisive A great quantity of stores, supplies and ammunition have fallen into our hands All rebel baggage and supplies were taken.

WASHINGTON, April 8—The following is a summary of the intelligence received by the War Department up to 10 o clock last night

At Yorktown, yesterday, the enemy's works were carefully examined by Gen McClellan and found to be very strong and the approaches difficult The enemy was in force and the batteries at Yorktown and Gloucester were much increased in number and force. There was sharp firing on the right but no damage was done It seemed plain that mortar and siege guns must be used for the attack

Another dispatch received at 10 30 this morning, states that Yorktown must fall without a siege, within two or three days. Some outer works have been taken Gen Wool telegraphs that Magruder had 80,000 men at Yorktown On the afternoon of Sunday, Ship Point had been taken, the gunboats shelling out the batteries All the fortified places of importance below Yorktown had been taken

The following account is from the official dispatches to the Secretary of War

That portion of the army of the Potomac recently concentrated at Old Point advanced, on Friday morning, in the direction of Yorktown The right was assigned to Morrill's Brigade, of Porter's Division with two companies of the Third Pennsylvania Cavalry, acting as skirmishers Nothing of interest occurred, until the arrival at Big Bethel, where the outer rebel pickets were met The troops delayed here for two hours, reconstructing a bridge which had been destroyed The rebels retreated before our skirmishers to Howard Creek, where they had some earthworks Shots were here fired by the rebels from two field pieces, which were soon silenced by the Fourth Rhode Island Battery, Then the rebels retreated, taking the artillery with them The main body of the army rested here for the night, while Morrill's brigade advanced to Cuckoldsville, six miles from Yorktown. By seven o'clock Saturday morning the column was again in motion At ten o'clock they were in front of the enemy's works at Yorktown The first shot fired was by the rebels Griffin's and the Third and Fourth Rhode Island and the Fifth Massachusetts Batteries were placed in position, replying to the same point from which the shots were fired by the rebels The cannonading continued with but slight intermission until dark About four hundred shots were fired by both parties during the day The loss on our side was three killed and five wounded The position of the rebels is a strong one from present appearances Their fortifications extend two miles in length and mount heavy guns The ground in front of their works is low and marshy

Arrangements are made to build, immediately, iron clad vessels of the character but larger than the Monitor.

REBEL NEWS—A bill repealing the tariff in favor of all nations except the United States, has passed the rebel Congress

The Judge of the City Court at Savannah has decided that drafting, as carried on, is illegal The Republican says that since this declaration none previously drafted will serve

The Great Battle at Pittsburgh Landing.

FORT HENRY, Tenn, April 9—One of the greatest battles of modern days was fought at Pittsburgh (Tenn) Landing, resulting in the complete rout of the rebels, who attacked us about daybreak on Sunday The battle lasted without intermission during the entire day, and was again renewed on Monday It continued until four o'clock in the afternoon, when the enemy commenced a retreat The rebel forces are still flying towards Corinth, pursued by a large force of our cavalry The slaughter on both sides was immense We have lost in killed, wounded and missing, report says, eighteen or twenty thousand men That of the enemy is estimated at thirty five or forty thousand

It is impossible in the present confused state of affairs to ascertain any of the details The rebels at times exhibited great generalship Even our heaviest and most destructive fire did not seem to discourage their solid columns. The fire of Taylor's Chicago battery raked them down by rows, but the smoke would no sooner be dispersed than the breach would be filled up

About five o'clock on Sunday the rebels had succeeded in forcing our left wing so as to occupy two-thirds of the field, and were fighting their way forward with a desperate degree to drive our forces into the river At the same time they were heavily engaging our right All this time and previous to the arrival of Buell's divisions, our forces did not exceed 38,000, contending against a force of 60 000 rebels Large numbers of our men were panic struck and others completely worn out.

The rebel Commander in Chief, A S Johnston was killed Beauregard had an arm shot off Federal Generals Sherman, and Wallace of Illinois, were killed, and Gen Prentiss taken prisoner by the rebels

WASHINGTON, April 9—Midnight—The Department of War has received dispatches confirming the news of the fight at Pittsburgh Landing on Sunday An overwhelming force of the rebels under Beauregard attacked our army The battle lasted from Sunday morning until late in the afternoon of the following day and resulted in the complete defeat of the rebels with heavy loss on both sides General Buell, with two divisions of his army arrived during the fight. Had it not been for this the day might have resulted disastrously to the Federals Our lines were driven in by their attack, but as the Federal reserve were brought forward the lost ground was regained

CHICAGO, April 9th—The following is the only account yet received here of the battle at Pittsburg Landing The attack was brought on by a body of three hundred of the Twenty fifth Missouri under General Prentiss attacking the advance guard of the rebels, which was supposed to be mostly pickets of the enemy. The rebels in force immediately advanced on General Prentiss brigade, which was stationed on the left wing pouring volley after volley of musketry and riddling our camps with grape, canister and shell Our forces soon formed into line and returned the fire vigorously. By the time we were prepared to receive them, they had concentrated their heaviest fire on the left and center of Sherman's Division, and drove our men back from their camps, and bringing up fresh forces they again opened fire on our left wing, the division being under the command of General McClernand This fire was returned with terrible effect and determined spirit by both infantry and artillery along the whole line for the distance of over four miles Gen Hurlbut's division was thrown forward to support the center, when a desperate conflict ensued The rebels being driven back with terrible slaughter soon rallied and drove back our men in turn—From nine o'clock Sunday morning until night, there was no possibility of determining what the result would be The rebels exhibited remarkable generalship At times engaging our left with apparently their whole force they would suddenly open a terrible destructive fire on the center and right The most desperate fighting took place in the afternoon The rebels seemed impressed with the idea that if they did not succeed in whipping us then, their chances for success would be extremely doubtful Up to this time the reinforcements which had been ordered forward had not arrived General Lew Wallace's division having taken the wrong road from Camps Landing did not come up until nightfall. When it arrived it had no means of crossing the river except transports used for the Quartermaster's and Commissary stores which were too heavily laden to carry any considerable number.—We were therefore contesting the fight against fearful odds, our force not exceeding 38,000, while that of the enemy was upward of 60,000 Our condition was critical Large number of our men were panic struck and others worn out by hard fighting Gen. Grant and Staff were recklessly riding among the lines during the entire day, amid the unceasing storm of bullets, grape and shell, and urging the men to stand firm until reinforcements could cross the river In the evening Col. Webster, Chief of the Staff, got into position with the heaviest pieces of artillery pointing on the enemy's right, while a large number of batteries were planted along the entire line from the river bank on the northwest to the extreme right two and a half miles distant. About an hour before dusk the General Commanding opened on the enemy from along our whole line with cannon, with a perpetual crack of musketry For a short time the rebels replied vigorously and effectively but their return shots became less frequent and less destructive. while ours grew more rapid and more terrible The gunboats Lexington and Tyler, which lay a short distance off, kept up a rain of shell on the rebel hordes This last effort was too much for the enemy and before dusk the firing nearly ceased, all the combatants rested from the work of blood and carnage Our men rested on their arms on the field in position they held at nightfall, until Gen Wallace arrived with his division and took position on the right, Nelson's division of Buell's army having arrived, was ordered to form on the left; Crittenden's division, also of Buell's army, was ordered to his support On Monday morning the battle commenced at daybreak, simultaneously by Nelson's division on the left, and Wallace's division on the right; Nelson's forces opened the most galling fire on the rebels and advanced rapidly as they fell back The fire soon became general among the whole line, and began to tell with terrible effect on the enemy.—

Generals McClernand, Sherman and Hurlbut's divisions although terribly jaded from the previous day's fighting still maintained the honors they won at Fort Donelson The resistance of the rebels at all points was gallant and worthy a better cause—but enough [illegible] for the undaunted [illegible] of our troops and dreadful desolation was produced by our artillery, which was sweeping them off like chaff [illegible] the rebel Generals still urged their forces to certain destruction, hoping by finding our right to turn the tide of battle. [illegible] more cheering, [illegible] began to gain ground and there, but [illegible] and Nelson was driving them [illegible] and by eleven o'clock had succeeded in flanking them, [illegible] and forced them [illegible] They rallied [illegible] Reinforcements [illegible] Generals W[illegible] being in [illegible] regiment by regiment were [illegible] who had again commenced to drive the [illegible] At three o'clock in the afternoon General Grant [illegible] the left and finding the rebels still fighting, [illegible] as he brandished his sword and waved them on, while cannon balls were falling [illegible] The rebels dismayed [illegible] They never made another stand By half past five o'clock the whole rebel army was in full retreat to Corinth [illegible] with our cavalry in hot pursuit, with what result is not yet known.

It is impossible to estimate what material is captured—It is known however that a large amount of their artillery and a number of prisoners [illegible] prisoners estimated at several hundred, among them Gen Prentiss. He is also reported wounded. The killed on the rebel side includes the Commander in Chief, A Sydney Johnston who was struck [illegible] Sunday afternoon. There is no doubt of this, as the fact is corroborated by several rebel officers taken.

It is further reported that Beauregard had an arm shot off [illegible] Breckinridge and Bushrod Johnson all had commands [illegible] The loss in officers is very [illegible] Among them are General W H L Wallace, Colonel [illegible] and Colonel Ellis acting Brigadier, killed [illegible] Major [illegible] of the Fifteenth Illinois, [illegible] of the Seventy second Ohio [illegible] Kyle, Forty first [illegible] Colonel Davis [illegible] General Sherman, Acting Brigadier General, was shot [illegible] Sunday but remained on the field [illegible] General Sherman had two horses killed under him [illegible] McClernand and Hurlbut had bullet holes through their clothes Our loss is variously estimated in killed, wounded and missing at from ten to twenty thousand and the rebels twice that number This however, [illegible] Our forces [illegible] Monday [illegible] by noon

CAIRO, April 9th—Our forces on Sunday at Pittsburg Landing [illegible] and thirty six field guns [illegible] Monday [illegible] retaken our camp [illegible] together with 40 of the enemy's guns Major Hunter [illegible] Illinois [illegible] killed [illegible] severely wounded Col Hall of the 16th Illinois [illegible] killed Major [illegible] Acting Colonel of Eighteenth Illinois was fatally wounded Capt [illegible] one of Gen Grant's [illegible] had his head shot off Major Page Fifty seventh Illinois was killed [illegible] was severely wounded [illegible] Curtis, acting Brigadier, was shot through the [illegible] Lieut Col [illegible] 13th Illinois was [illegible] ball in the head—Capt. [illegible] Eighteenth Illinois [illegible] Fifth Illinois, and Capt. Carter, Eleventh Illinois were killed

A dispatch from the Tennessee River says that the attack on Sunday was a complete surprise [illegible] Our loss in killed at Pittsburg was from 600 to 1000 [illegible] The loss of the enemy was [illegible] characterizes the retreat of the rebels on Monday as a regular [illegible] A large [illegible] quantity was [illegible] returned

Six of our batteries were taken and retaken six times on Sunday The sharpshooters of the enemy did terrible execution upon our officers Gov. Yates, commander of this [illegible] sending every boat [illegible] to bring down the wounded Telegrams [illegible] to the Governors of the neighboring States and to the Sanitary Commission for nurses and hospital supplies

It is thought that Buell will be in possession of Corinth by Tuesday at noon

Capture of Island No 10.

WASHINGTON, April 9th—The following dispatches from flag Officer [illegible] general officers and [illegible] hundred and [illegible] men were taken at Island No 10 A [illegible] examination of the works shows that eleven earthworks with seventy guns [illegible] a well supplied [illegible] with powder, also a large quantity of shot, shell and other munitions [illegible] great quantity of [illegible] and four steamers afloat have fallen into our hands. Two others with the gunboat Grampus were sunk, but can be easily raised. The enemy upon the main land appear to have fled with great precipitation after dark on the night of the 7th leaving in many cases half prepared meals There appears to have been a want of concert of action between the rebels of the island and those occupying the shore Their works, erected with the highest engineering skill have great strength and natural advantages, and would have been impregnable if defended by men fighting in a better cause

A combined attack with naval and land forces was to have been made yesterday afternoon or this morning, had not the rebels hastily retired and abandoned the stronghold.

CAIRO, April 9th—The value of commissary stores taken at Island No 10 is over $1,000,000, 50,000 pounds of powder were found in the magazines. On the island were tents for 7,000 men. Six steamers captured there were scuttled by the rebels. General Pope's command numbered nearly 40,000 men, and all crossed the river on the afternoon of Monday and the forenoon of Tuesday. The island shows, unmistakably, the terrible effect of our shells. High trees were cut down, and there is a great excavation in one place where a shell exploded. The hole is six feet deep. Some stragglers from the rebel [illegible] came in to-day and gave themselves up [illegible] One company of [illegible] Tennessee artillery company—declare that they are now on our side

[illegible] April 9th—Three hundred prisoners taken at Island No 10 have been ordered here

FORTRESS MONROE April 9th—The Merrimac is lying near Craney Island with several armed steamers

Latest from McClellan's Forces.

WASHINGTON, April 11th—Specials to the New York papers say that it is supposed Yorktown was taken on Sunday night Intelligence says that private information was received on the afternoon of Sunday to the effect that Yorktown was seen in flames. It is conjectured that the rebels fired the town perhaps with the intention of evacuating the position

BALTIMORE April 9—According to the latest news from Yorktown everything was progressing satisfactorily

WASHINGTON April 9th—Dispatch from Fortress Monroe dated three o'clock this afternoon, say that reconnoisances have been made towards Yorktown. The head quarters of our army are now within two miles of that place—There has been some cannonading without injury to either side.

Items from Washington.

WASHINGTON April [illegible]—Stevens, from the Committee of Ways and Means stated in the House today that the expenditure of Government amounted to $1,000,000 a day and he estimated that the debt would amount to twelve hundred million [illegible] the war was ended this season

A resolution was offered and [illegible] that the House with the concurrence of the Senate will adjourn on the third Monday in May

It is thought that the Tax Bill will not be taken up in the Senate before Thursday The probabilities are that it will pass substantially as it comes from the House. Representatives of interests affected by the bill already besiege the Senate Committee [illegible]

Latest!

News of April 15th.

[illegible], April 14—Dispatches from Fortress Monroe say the Merrimac remained in the vicinity [illegible] all day yesterday until the evening, when together with the rest of the rebel fleet, she returned to Norfolk. She is generally supposed to have been [illegible] of the rebel fleet

A Norfolk paper has been received containing a dispatch from Beauregard [illegible] days fight at Pittsburg Landing. He says that after capturing [illegible] guns and 8,000 prisoners he fell back upon his works at Corinth, which they are fully able to hold

BALTIMORE, April 14—In reference to Beauregard's dispatch [illegible] in the Old Point dispatch [given above] inquiries have been made at the War Department and we are authorized to say that the report from Pittsburg Landing already given to the public [illegible] the report in the Norfolk papers. All the reports received at the War Department confirm the statement that the enemy were routed and pursued [illegible] The enemy are [illegible] shut up in Corinth

NEW YORK, April 14—A correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer after being captured by the rebels at Pittsburg Landing, and who afterwards escaped, [illegible] Corinth He states [illegible] (12,000) wounded [illegible] all but two [illegible] the famous Washington artillery of New Orleans

ST. LOUIS April 11 1862—Gen. Halleck [illegible] dispatches from Cairo informing him that the rebel steamers have been captured at Island No 10

The [illegible] Generals [illegible] among the prisoners. The stores and ammunition taken [illegible] immense.

Beaufort N. C., is in possession of the Federals

There is nothing later from Pittsburg Landing than I have already telegraphed you.

The rebels are retreating towards Richmond, closely pursued by the advance of our army.

A CARD.

I would say to my friends in the Willamette Valley, and to all who are afflicted with disease of the bronchial tubes and lungs, that Dr. J. Flattery will be in Portland about April 6th, and will be prepared to relieve and cure those who are thus afflicted. Dr. Flattery's system of inhalation has accomplished wonders. My condition was well known to many in Portland and the adjacent country, when I left Oregon in the Fall of '59. My friends supposed that I could not live long. Through this system of inhalation as prescribed by Dr. Flattery, I have so far recovered as to be able for many months to pursue my business with energy and satisfaction. I could also tell of persons here and in the Sacramento Valley who were considered incurable, who have by Dr. F.'s system, been restored to their friends and to the enjoyment of health. I say to the afflicted, try this new system and live. H. S. PIKE.

N. B.—The above card was not asked for by Dr. Flattery, nor does he know that it is written. It is prompted by gratitude and a regard for the afflicted. H. S. P.

San Francisco, April 1, 1862. apr7dw1m

Agency Notice.—Mr. L. P. FISHER is our only authorized Agent in San Francisco to receive advertisements, and transact business for the DAILY and WEEKLY OREGONIAN. Office—No. 171½ Washington street, nearly opposite Maguire's Opera House.

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is an illustrious example, a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma, and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the LEADER in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures, in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. HARKER BROTHERS.

Portland, April 10, 1862.

Information of James B. Hughes Wanted.

JAMES B. HUGHES is supposed to have been a resident of Portland, Oregon. For about ten years past his friends in Michigan have not heard from him. A short time since it was understood by his friends in Michigan that he had died some time about the date of March 1861, and that he left a large amount of property. In person he was a short and thick-set man, of dark complexion; sharp-featured, and by occupation a lumber-dealer and commission merchant, owning extensive lumber and flouring mills.—His present age, if he were living, would be about forty-one years. He went to California in 1849. His former residence was Chicago, Ill. It is supposed that he left a wife and two children, but that they are since deceased.

Should any citizen of Oregon or Washington Territory, or California, possess any knowledge of this James B. Hughes, and will communicate the same to the editor of this paper, or the undersigned, a great favor will be conferred, which will be duly acknowledged.

The Burning of the Willows.

A TALE OF THE REVOLUTION.

(CONCLUDED.)

"So, so, here's a list of our troops and their numbers in and about the city. At [illegible] three hundred and fifty. At [illegible] and Newark one thousand. C[illegible] Clinton [illegible] for Charlestown with five thousand. Why, these documents are indeed of importance! Who can play the spy so well in our camp? This Van Dyke is a most dangerous [illegible] to be abroad. Men, and you, [illegible] search every hole and see if any more papers can be found."

What he found or discovered he did not report to Col. Harcourt, but made the same reply as the soldiers that nothing of importance [illegible] be found.

"Very well, we will now leave the place, and return to quarters at Powle's Hook.— [illegible] place some dry wood in the middle of the room, and when I give the word apply the match."

"What are you going to burn the Willows, Colonel?"

"Yes, I will burn down the nest of this carrion bird. It is well he is not within my reach, he would swing for it. One such fellow, with his secret spying, is of more injury to us than a regiment of rebels in an open field."

Little did the British commander imagine that the young man was almost within the very sound of his voice.

"[illegible], all except Hodgeson."

By this time, with Classen, the Colonel had [illegible] within the hearing of Van Dyke, when he halted with the troops.

"Now, Hodgeson, apply the match, mount and fall in."

It was with anguish that Van Dyke heard this order from his hiding place. The Willows, as the house was called, had been the birthplace of his ancestors, as it was his own, [illegible] he had passed his life. But [illegible] could he do? Nothing.

[illegible] bright smoke arose, and [illegible] each door and window. This was [illegible] bright flames that shot far into the sky, and the crackling of the well seasoned [illegible] dry with a century of preparation, [illegible] at a great distance.

"[illegible] will be one rebel shelter less tonight. It is a pity that they were not all [illegible], then the king would have more friends on this side of the water. Those rebels [illegible] dogs, a good whipping makes [illegible] natured. The house is nearly [illegible] for the embers are beginning to [illegible] breeze. By file, to the [illegible]" and the horsemen wheeled into the road.

"[illegible] guineas you say, Colonel, if I take [illegible]" asked Classen again.

"[illegible] guineas."

"[illegible] leave you here, and keep a watch [illegible]. He may return here before a [illegible]. Where do you halt?"

"[illegible] five miles off, and stop for [illegible] for the forage party. If any [illegible] within that time, you [illegible] find me."

[illegible] troop rode away.

[illegible] around and gradually approached the building, which was, with the [illegible] brick walls, a heap of ruins. "[illegible] you have glutted your [illegible] and this is your work, [illegible]

"[illegible]," he muttered, trembling [illegible] the British officer. [illegible] I have not [illegible] you."

"[illegible] other word, liar, or I shall [illegible] your brains out. I [illegible] you are to have fifty guineas for [illegible] I saw everything that is [illegible] to burn your house down, but [illegible] who saved your dwelling and your [illegible] and these ruins are my re[illegible]

"[illegible] dear Peter."

"[illegible] do not apply that word 'dear' to [illegible]. It sounds worse than the hiss of a [illegible] John Classen, the chief reason of your [illegible] to me is because Kate [illegible] placed my hand in yours. Thank God, she and her father are both safe from [illegible], for they are now within the American lines. Now hear me—I spare you this time, for you are unarmed; but [illegible] again, be it in town or village, [illegible] or funeral, it is your life [illegible] go."

Classen waited for no second bidding, but [illegible] in the direction taken by the [illegible] his hair standing on end, for like all other great rogues, he was as cowardly as he was bad. Van Dyke [illegible] a moment, and thus pondered in his own mind:

"That scoundrel will bring some of those [illegible], for he will imagine that I [illegible] linger two or three hours around the old place. Yes, yes, I will go after some twenty of our lads and prepare an ambush for them. Fifty guineas will draw Classen anywhere, [illegible] he is, especially when backed by the red-coats."

It was not long before Van Dyke returned with his party, when he gathered by a signal [illegible] had fallen, they took their station amid the willows by the banks of the brook, where they could remain unperceived. For the space of an hour all was still, and then the distant tramp of horses on the road [illegible] heard.

"Here they come," said Van Dyke. "Each one [illegible] his [illegible], but leave Classen to me—you know him by the cap he wears. I will give the word when to fire."

In a short time the party of horsemen rode up to the willows, and true enough they were red-coats, headed by a lieutenant, with Classen.

"Fire!" shouted Van Dyke.

So sudden and deadly was the aim that not more than half a dozen remained in their saddles, who wheeled their horses and fled as quick as possible. Van Dyke had intentionally aimed at the horse of Classen, and he fell with his rider. To secure Classen was the work of a moment.

"Now lads, bring out the rope and throw it over the willow branch. We have alarmed the enemy and they will be down upon us."

"Mercy! mercy!" cried Classen.

All in vain. The noose was slipped over his head, they strung him up, and there he was left until he was a corpse. The burning of the "Willows," has been avenged.

"Will your dog take to the water?" said a gentleman to a rustic, who had a water spaniel [illegible]. "Why, yes, sir, if they put [illegible] in it," was the reply.

Of all diseases, the great [illegible] springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

To the [illegible]

Suffer [illegible] guaranteed in all stages of secret diseases, Self-Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, diseases of the Kidneys and [illegible], Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, [illegible] upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities, and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, how ever long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant, without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands, who, in the last stage of the above-mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, scrofula, and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected—a majority of cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease, but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the sufferer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and the treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering and consigning them to an early grave.

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the system—drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victim of self-abuse, that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and with the abandonment of ruinous practices, my patients can be restored to robust, vigorous health.

Irregularities and all diseases of males and females, treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures.—Medicines, with full directions, sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co.'s Office, San Francisco.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief

Below we publish the certificates of three of the sufferers from the pangs of disease, who, having recovered their former health, and impelled by gratitude, make known their cases and remedial agent, and their statements are authenticated by a Notary Public. The demands of society imperiously command their publicity, and we commend their perusal to the attention of all afflicted:

Certificate.—The undersigned, desirous of acquainting those who may be unfortunate enough to be similarly afflicted, where a permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty to thus publicly express his most sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay, for the permanent recovery of his health. Borne down by the distressing symptoms incident to the vicious practices of uncontrollable passion in youth; depressed in body and mind, unable to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon the ordinary avocations of life, I sought the advice of many physicians, who at first regarded my disease as of trifling importance—but, alas! after a few weeks, and in several instances, months, of their treatment, I found, to my unutterable horror, that instead of relief, my symptoms became more alarming in their torture; and being told by one that my disease being principally confined to the brain, medicine would be of little consequence, I despaired of ever regaining my health, strength, and energy; and as a last resort, and with but a faint hope, called upon Dr. Czapkay, who, after examining my case, prescribed some medicine which almost instantly relieved me of the dull pain and dizziness in my head. Encouraged by the result, I resolved to place myself immediately under his care, and by a strict obedience to all his directions and advice, my head became clear, and my ideas collected, the constant pain in my back and groins, the weakness of my limbs, the nervous reaction of my whole body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the misanthropy and evil forebodings, the self-distrust and want of confidence in others, the incapacity to study, and want of resolution; the frightful, exciting, and at times pleasant dreams at night, followed by involuntary discharges, have all disappeared; and in fact, in two months after consulting the doctor, I felt as if inspired by a new life [illegible] but a short time ago I contemplated to [illegible] hand. With the view to guard the unfortunate [illegible] into the snares of incompetent quacks, I [illegible] offer this testimony to the merit and skill [illegible] and recommend him to all who may [illegible] cal advice, being assured by my own [illegible] under his care a radical and permanent cure [illegible]
